Meet with Rev Kathy and Other UUs

Sunday February 16 there will be a luncheon get-together to increase fellowship and the chance to get to know one another better. This is a good way to connect and meet some of the newcomers in the congregation.

12 PM following the service at Travis & Judy Gordons in Ormond by the Sea (near North Peninsula State Park). Sign up at the table in the back if you are able to come meet with Rev Kathy other UUs.

From Joanne Kennedy

"Update: Our son Mike is now with us in Ormond recovering from his Dec auto accident. He is doing very well. Not paralyzed thank heaven. He moves around well and can go for short walks. Needs his neck incision changed every day and needs lots of rest with little strenuous exercise. We are very happy that he is with us. He and I will be returning to Delray periodically for doctor appointments.

Thank you for your concern and kind words for his recovery. They were helpful to me.

See you all soon Joanne “

LIFE LONG LEARNING

Wednesday, February 12, 2020, 4:00—5:30

A Journey of the Heart into Andalucía, the Jewel of Islamic Spain Dr. Martha Sanders Brandt
Life

In this program Dr. Brandt will share with us a journey that begins in La Mezquita, the Great Mosque of Córdoba, and proceeds to Granada, where we visit the renowned Alhambra. Then we travel to Sevilla for a tour of the Royal Alcázar and a special holiday encounter at the Palacio Algaba. Before returning home to Florida, we enjoy an archaeological excursion to the 10th-century “City of Flowers” near Córdoba, where Dr. Brandt embarked upon her journey of the heart. Dr. Brandt, a retired college professor of French, comes from a life filled with art, music, literature, spiritual quest, and worldwide travel. Among many joys of her retirement, life have been the opportunity to study Islamic art and culture in museums and heritage sites around the world.

Wednesday, February 26, 2020, 4:00—5:30

Mr. Pate will discuss hydrolibria, which is the creation of institutions and products for the internal management of large waters by the use of basic machines, like the wheel and wedge, developing infrastructure at regional scales for control of flooding and ecosystems. While on land we have cultivated and built in ways that mostly enable life, the fluid two-thirds of the planet has just been something to live by or travel thru, without regard for the life and energy we consume while doing it; despite air and water being immediately required for life, they have been left in the control of weather and gravity, without real-time defenses or accommodations to 21st Century life. Restoration requires working within waterways to directly affect flow and exchange while building structures that encourage fisheries and provide water treatment. And like all new industries, these tools for flood control and water treatment must be applied at a scale that develops their use and limits; in the face of emergencies that take life and destroy capital, studies and modeling are not enough. Railroads and aerospace took decades to develop, agriculture many generations: time Florida cannot afford. The Consortium and Co-op are taking the moon-shot approach and starting in 2020 will build a system at scale from Matanzas to Sebastian Inlet, upgrading technology and methods as they develop.

Henry Pate has a B.S. in Fisheries and Wildlife (Aquaculture Option) from Texas A&M University. He is Lead Scientist at Hydrolibria Consortium, Inc and President of Halifax and Indian Waters Co-op, Inc. Mr. Pate’s work for government and commercial clients included the performance of materials and equipment in marine environments, and the development of methods and products for the direct management of large waters.

LOOK OUT....

Early in the New Year, the Leadership workshops will be announced for the spring. These workshops are designed to inform congregational interested, nomination committee members and future leaders of our congregation on the knowledge of what a member of the Board and standing committees should know. Participant will receive useful tools and handouts to enhance the learning of how our UUCOB functions. If you have any questions on the workshop, that will take place over several meetings, please contact Betty Green 386-214-2409 for more information.
