The term spirituality can mean various things. For some it may mean belief in a divine power (e.g. God) and supernatural phenomena, usually associated with religion. Others find it in the existence and functioning of the cosmos (e.g. laws of nature). A current trend is for those leaving mainline churches to say that they do not believe in traditional religion, but that they are spiritual. When asked to explain this, answers are often vague and ambiguous. This program will explore concepts of spirituality, using a panel discussion and a Q & A format.
